CLUES FOUND IN DIAMOND ROBBERY

Officers Spent Thursday Morning at Pen-Mar. Baltimore officers at Work on Case in City.

This morning, local officers of Washington county, Md., were hard at work at Pen-Mar, and it is said they unearthed what may be some valuable clues.

The search for Mrs. Jerome Diggs' diamonds, stolen from a Pen Mar cottage, during the storm of Monday evening last, still goes on.

Mrs. Diggs, who is at her home in Baltimore, paid a visit to detective headquarters, yesterday. She wanted the chief to send one of the sleuths to the mountain district to seek the jewels, but she was told that it could not be done, unless the county authorities made a request and then stood the expenses of the trip.

Mrs. Diggs told the chief that no one had entered through the window, for she had fruit on the window sill, which was not disturbed. The police are of the opinion that the entrance was made by means of a pass key.

Headquarters Detective Brennan has been working the Baltimore pawn shops, but up to this time has not discovered any of the goods there.

TWO LOSE LIVES IN AUTO RACES

Driver of Car and Mechanician Killed at Indianapolis.

MARRIED SPEEDWAY OPENING

Automobile Was Coming Down Home
Stretch at Terrific Speed, When It Suddenly Swerved and Tore into the Fence, Overturning and Pining Its Occupants Under It—Two Records Broken.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 20.—Two lives were lost and two records broken during the inauguration of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. William A.
Bourque, driver of the Knox car in the 250-mile race, and Harry Holcomb, his mechanician, were killed in the frenzied carnival of speed.

Barney Oldfield, driving a high-powered Benz, covered a mile in 43.1-10, breaking De Palma's record of 51, and Louis Chevrolet, in a Buick, negotiated ten miles in the marvelous time of 8.56 4-10, cutting Oldfield's time of 9.12. Both of these are new American track marks.

The death of the two men caused the American Automobile association to issue an ultimatum to the owners of the big track that certain changes must be made by today or the sanction for the races will be withdrawn.
The American Automobile association demands that the track be freed from its many dangerous ruts, which are claimed to be unavoidable in a new track, and that every inch of it be thoroughly oiled and tarred. Today only a short portion in front of the grand stand was oiled, and the dust on the other parts is blamed for the collapse of two drivers in the long race—Louis Chevrolet and Fred Ellis —who were blinded by the dense white dust that covered the major portion of the track.

The Knox car was in second place, with Burman in his Buick leading. It had covered nearly 150 miles when the crash came. Coming down the homestretch, the car suddenly swerved and tore into the fence at the left of the track, turning completely over and pinning its two occupants beneath it.
Both men were alive when taken from under the ill-fated machine, but Bourque died in the ambulance on the way to the Emergency hospital. Holcomb lived a few minutes longer, but was dead soon after he arrived at the hospital.

Theories as to the cause of the accident vary, and no one will ever know what really caused the car to swerve from the track. One of the rear wheels was found a few hundred feet from the scene of the accident, and this has led to the advancement of the theory that the axle nuts on it had not been properly tightened when the machine had taken on a new tire shortly before. The men probably felt that wheel slipping off, and after they looked behind they realized their helplessness to prevent an accident.

Bourque was twenty-six years old and lived at Springfield, Mass. He had been in the employ of the Knox company for seven years, and had been a racing driver since 1907.

Holcomb was twenty-two years old and lived at Grandville, Mass. He had been with the Knox company for two years, and was considered one of the best mechanicians in the racing business. Both men were unmarried.

As the result of the two deaths, the Knox company has withdrawn all its entries for the next two days, and it is said it will probably never again enter its cars in a race.

FIGHT OVER SUICIDES

Canada Kicks on Paying Burial Expenses For Niagara Plungers.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 20.—Out-of the burial of Niagara Falls succides has arisen an international episode which, if it does not threaten the peace of the nations, has greatly upset the sensibilities of the people of the frontier and may end in an appeal to the provincial parliament. The trouble is over the question who shall pay for the funeral expenses of the river victims. About $500 a year is involved in the answer.

About 99 out of every 100 suicides bodies find their way to the Maid of the Mist landing or to the Whirlpool, both on the Canadian side.

Declaring that almost all the succides go in on the American side, the Canadian park commissioners appealed to the American park commissioners to help pay expenses of the burial.
The Americans refused, although admitting the origin of most of the succides.

AFTER AERONAUTIC RECORD

Willard Will Fly an Hour's Sail in Golden Flier Today.

Mineola, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Charles Foster Willard will attempt to surpass Glenn H. Curtiss' record for the Scientific American cup today with a duration flight near here in the Golden Flier, which was postponed from

CHARLES FOSTER WILLARD.

Thursday, to make more thorough preparations for his long flight.

Willard, who has been making demonstrations since Curtiss' departure, flew twelve miles across country last Friday in the Curtiss aeroplane. He will be obliged to stay in the air more than 52 minutes and 40 seconds today if he wrests the trophy record from Curtiss. If Willard succeeds in making a new record he will achieve one of the most remarkable aeronautic feats ever performed. He has been flying only three weeks and, according to all the rules, should simply be doing small jumps.

COAL BARGE SINKS; CREW OF FIVE PERISH

Vessel Breaks Away From Tug During Fierce Gale.

Saunderstown, R. I., Aug. 20.—The barge Shawmont, with a crew of five men, bound from Philadelphia for Portsmouth, N. H., broke away from the tug Valley Forge, off Shinnecock L. I., early Tuesday morning, and it is feared she went to the bottom with all hands.

Five other barges bound for Providence, Boston and Newburyport also tore loose and floated helplessly for ten hours before they were picked up.

The barges left Philadelphia on Sunday in tow of the Valley Forge and Monocacy. When off Shinnecock they ran into the heavy northeast gale that prevailed along the coast Monday night and Tuesday.

The Shawmont, the first barge in the tow of the Valley Forge, broke loose Tuesday morning. At almost the same instant the tow of the Monocacy broke away, and so thick was the weather that the barges had completely disappeared before the tugs could put about.

There was no trace of the Shawmont, except some wreckage that was floating around, and the captains finally decided that she had gone to the bottom.

The missing barge was commanded by Captain Alfred Gould. The Shawmont was a schooner-rigged barge of 865 tons net, 193 feet in length, 35 feet beam and 17 feet depth of hold. She was built at Noank, Conn., in 1900.
The Shawmont had a crew of five men when she cleared from Philadelphia.

RADIUM FOR WHOLE WORLD

Discovery of Pitchblende in California
May Supply Enough For All Time.

Kennett, Cal., Aug. 20.—According to a story told by Dr. S. Wilkins, who arrived in this city, enough pitch-blende has been discovered on the McCloud river, north of here, to supply the world with radium for all time. Dr. Wilkins had in his possession fine specimens of the precious stuff, and so impressed were some business men with his story that they sent an expert to visit the newly discovered ledge.

The ledge is twenty miles up the McCloud river, from the confluence of that stream with the Pitt river.

Clubs Cannot Sell Liquor.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 20.—By an overwhelming vote the house passed the anti-club bill, under the provisions of which even the most sanguine anti-prohibition leaders believe that clubs will be forced to cut out every sort of liquor on sale or distribution.
Every application for a club charter must bear the promise not to allow liquors be sold, distributed or stored.

Wagon Crushes Child to Death.

Pottsville, Pa., Aug. 20.—Rushing out to get a wisep of straw from a ha-wagon, five-year-old Roy Renninger was crushed to death under the wheels. The accident took place on Pottsville's main street.

Foul Ball Kills Ball Player.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 20.—John Roski, catcher of a local base ball club, while suffering from an ulcerated tooth, was struck by a foul ball. The injury affected the heart, a physician said, and the victim died.

SAVED BY HER HAIR "RATS"

Woman Severely Beaten by Footpads
In Front of Home.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Although saved from death by steel "rats" in her hair while fighting two footpads who robbed her of diamonds and jewelry valued at $1500, Mrs. Mabel Moore is under the care of a physician at her home. She was beaten severely.

The robbery occurred in front of Mrs. Moore's home. Leaping from behind a clump of bushes, the two men thrust revolvers against Mrs. Moore's head.

"Drop that satchel or we'll kill you," said one of the footpads, pressing the muzzle of his revolver against her forehead.

Mrs. Moore sprang aside, knocked the revolver away and tried to run up the stairway of her home. The next moment she was seized. The robbers beat her on the head with their weapons until she sank unconscious on the stairs. Then they took the chateleine bag off her wrist and fled.

HAZERS DISMISSED FROM WEST POINT

Cadets Who Injured Lieut. Sutton's Brother Punished.

West Point, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Five cadets of the military academy, who were recently found guilty of having hazed Rolando Sutton, a brother of Lieutenant James N. Sutton, who was shot at Annapolis in 1907, were dismissed by order of President Taft.

The young men whose military careers are at an end are John H. Booker, Jr., first class, of West Point, Ga.; Richard W. Hocker, third class, Kansas City, Mo.; Earl W. Dunmore, third class, Utica, N. Y.; Chauncey C. Devore, third class, Wheeling, W. Va.; Gordon Lefebvre, third class, Hawarden, Iowa; Jacob S. Fortner, third class, Dothan, Ala., were dismissed.

Secretary of War Dickinson, after considering all points in the case, concurred in the recommendation of the board. Sutton was more seriously injured than at first supposed, and he has been in the hospital until this week, when he reported for duty.
Limping badly.

Charges were made several weeks ago that Sutton was assaulted while on guard duty, walking a lonely post, and beaten down by men wrapped in sheets and masked with pillow cases.
He was sent to the hospital, suffering from severe injuries. On account of the law passed by congress to stop hazing at the military academy, a rigid investigation was made.

Accused Officers May Sue.

Baltimore Md., Aug. 20.—Following the statement of Mrs. Sutton's counsel that the recent inquiry into the death of Lieutenant James Sutton, and its finding that he shot himself either accidentally or intentionally, was only a "curtain raiser," it was said at Annapolis that the officers of the Marine Corps involved in the Sutton case have discussed at length the question of taking action against Mrs. James N. Sutton, mother of the dead lieutenant, for alleged defamation of character.

Whether or not the recommendation of the court that "no further proceedings be taken," will cause the officers involved to hesitate over the proposed action is not known.

POSTAL CLERK ARRESTED

Follows Discovery of Many Letters Hidden Under Postoffice Floor.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Postoffice inspectors discovered a letter containing a check for $1000, payable to the Mary Thompson hospital, in a pile of rubbish beneath the flooring of station U, a depot sub-station of the postoffice.
With this letter were a number of others containing smaller checks. The discovery of the missing mail followed the arrest of one of the employees at the sub-station.

The postoffice authorities declared that many letters have been rifled by the prisoner and that those found by him to contain checks and no money were not forwarded to the owners, but were hidden.

Will Indemnify Shackleton.

London, Aug. 20.—The debt incurred by Lieutenant E. H. Shackleton and the members of his family over the South Pole expedition, is to be liquidated by the government. Premier Asquith announced in the house of commons that he would ask the house to vote $100,000 for that purpose. Lieutenant Shackleton himself recently declared that the expedition cost him first and last, $200,000.

Plenty of Salmon.

Bellingham, Wash., Aug. 20.—Soc-eye salmon are running in a manner which promises to surpass the record of 1901. The waters of the gulf and sound, from the mouth of the Fraser river to the Pacific entrance of the strait of Fuca, are alive with fish.

Poet Watson a Benedict.

London, Aug. 20.—It is announced married at Bath Aug. 11 to a beautiful Irish girl, Miss Pring, of Hill of Howth. Mr. Watson has just passed his fifty-first birthday.

BABY'S SUMMER REMEDY FREE

In a family where the children are still young few mothers experience the joy of passing a summer without the children becoming sick. As a rule the ailment is a trivial one, though it looks very serious. The trouble usually lies in the stomach or bowels, due to a summer cold or to unfit food, water or fruit—the hot-weather dangers. Before becoming alarmed, however, give the child a dose of DR.
CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPsin when you put it to bed. The direction sheet that comes with each bottle will tell you the quantity to give, according to the age, and as the remedy is pleasant to take and does not gripe, the child will not refuse it. By morning it will be much improved, and in another day entirely well. That is the experience of thousands of mothers. Give it in constipation, biliousness, summer complaint, loss of appetite or sleep, sick headache, peevishness, etc. Do not give salts or purgative waters, tablets, pills or sleep-producing remedies that always contain narcotics, for these are unpleasant to take, gripe, and do only temporary good. DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPsin is a vegetable compound, thoroughly tested in American homes for many years. Women, children and old people are among its staunch friends. Your druggist will sell you a bottle at the small price of 50 cents or $1.00.

Those who have never yet used DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPsin and would like to make a test of it before buying in the regular way of their druggist, can obtain a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE either for themselves or any member of their family by sending name and address to the doctor. The sample will be sent to your home free of charge. In the box you will find out what it will do without cost. Also, if the case presents difficulties that doctors and other remedies seem unable to overcome, write to DR. CALDWELL explaining what the trouble is. He will give you his best MEDICAL ADVICE, based on half a century of experience in stomach, liver and bowel diseases, without charge. Women who have children should send for "SUMMER SUGGESTIONS TO MOTHERS", containing the doctor's advice on diet, hygiene, etc., in hot weather—a very important subject. The address is

THE NEST EGG NO FAKE.

Now! Everybody ready? Here's for a good laugh at the cushion pressing poultry editor who calls the nest egg "grandmother's superstition."

Our hens just cackle for them. Why?
Just because a hen sits plump down on a nest egg and uses it to press out the new egg.

She will lay almost every time where there is an egg and, if not furnished, will often scratch a stone, corn cob or green apple into the nest.

Hens can carry an egg under the wing, as you have discovered to your sorrow when lifting a chick hastily from the nest. We have been surprised at times to find most of the nest eggs in one nest and on watching have detected a hen making the transfer.

To cultivate the habit of laying in one place and to stop nest stealing, prevent hens crowding into one nest and also the dropping of eggs, to be broken and eaten, and to start your laying pullets to lay in the nests, furnish nest eggs, and lots of them. The pulent louse killing nest egg soon evaporates and taints the eggs. The natural egg should not be used, as it gets stale. The white china egg is best for the nest.

FOR A QUICK, EARLY MOLT.

Fido, Pussy and Old Fan shed their hair just like Biddy molts her feathers. Easy, cheap way to get a winter overcoat!

But Biddy must hustle her molt to escape colds and roup and to lay early winter high priced eggs.

Strong hens don't get bare, their new feathers quickly replacing the old.

Molting begins about July 1 and should end Sept. 1 at latest, and thin hens molt first, so thin them down by cutting the ration to one-half or a third the usual quantity, according to condition, whether fat or thin. For this three weeks' anti-fat ration feed mostly wheat and oats and twice a week on clear days feed a mash in which put two tablespoonsful of sulphur to every fifty fowls. Now feed heavily of good grains, cut bone and sundowner seed. This will rush their new feathers and bring them to laying condition.

Keep them free from lice in molt, feed no egg force and protect them from exposure.

DON'TS.

Don't miss your town paper in advertising stock to sell. It will bring you boodle for cockadoodle, and you'll not be like the noodle who placed his ad. 500 miles away and never heard from it until the judgment day.

Don't forget that young show birds should be well fed, well housed, well petted, but not spoiled.

Don't lock that door after the chickens have been stolen nor hide the key on the doorstep.

Don't build a henhouse like a king's palace, and don't build a shack. To build just right, as in anything else, you must find the golden mean, and the golden mean leads to the gold mine.

Don't get mad at your neighbor if he skins your cat that skinned his chick.
It's a skin game trick.

Don't sigh for more worlds to conquer before you conquer yourself. That made Alexander a great failure.

Don't go through the world with your eyes open to the other fellow's faults. You can't hide your own even in safety vaults.

Don't count your show birds till they mature and don't count your cups till the show is over.

Don't neglect to mix charcoal with the soft mash to ward off summer diseases.

Remedy For Sick Calves.

A stockman claims that when calves three or four days old become sick and die with scours it is due to indigestion, apparently, and yields to treatment with pepsin if taken in time. A teaspoonful twice a day given in a little warm milk after feeding will cure it and if given when the calf is born and continued for a few days will prevent it. The pepsin is the common kind sold in drug stores and can be purchased by the pound.

Good Hay.

Good hay can only be made by cutting the grass as soon as it heads out and clover as soon as the heads are in full bloom. It is a mistake to wait until the heads turn brown. There is nothing in the theory that sunshine alone makes hay. Air is as much a factor as sunshine. Curing mainly in the windrows and haycocks is now practiced by many of our best hay specialists.

Ten Doctors Said He Would Die

"In 1903 we wrote you regarding my husband, who was suffering from heart trouble. He was superannated by the North tors at different times said he would die. You advised Dr.

An Up-To-Date Druggist

says it is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old, time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the tea ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Corland St., New York City, upon receipt of price. LUMBER CUT OF 1909.

Reduction Shown by Reports From More Than 30,000 Sawmills.

Every farmer in the United States must be interested in the lumber produced. During the year 1908 31,231 sawmills in the United States manufactured 33,289,339,000 feet of lumber, according to a preliminary report issued by the bureau of the census. These mills also cut 12,106,483,000 shingles and 2,986,684,000 lath. Lumber manufacturing, like every other industry, felt the effects of the business depression which began in October, 1907. Consequently the production in 1908 was below that for the previous year. In 1907 the cut of 28,850 sawmills was 40,256,154,000 feet, the highest production ever recorded. Notwithstanding, therefore, that in 1908 reports were received from 8 per cent more mills than in 1907, the decrease in lumber cut reported by them was slightly over 17 per cent.
Washington, as for several years, still ranks first among the states in lumber production, its cut in 1908 being 2,315,928,000 feet—a decrease of 22.8 per cent over the cut in 1907. Nearly all the lumber manufactured in Washington is Douglas fir, the market for which was seriously affected by the panic. Louisiana ranks second, with 2,722,421,000 feet, a decrease of 250,000,000 feet, or 8.4 per cent, from the cut in 1907. Louisiana is first in the production of both yellow pine and cypress. Mississippi was the third state in lumber production in 1908 with a total of 1,861,016,000 feet—a decrease of 11 per cent from the cut in 1907.
Arkansas ranked fourth with 1,656,991,000 feet, a decrease of nearly 17 per cent from the previous year's output, and Wisconsin fifth with 1,613,315,000 feet against 2,003,279,000 feet in 1907. In Texas, where the lumber industry is confined almost exclusively to yellow pine, the falling off was very heavy. The total cut of the state in 1908 was 1,524,008,000 feet, a decrease of 31.6 per cent from the cut in 1907.
Eight other states manufactured more than one billion feet each of lumber last year. In the order of importance they were: Michigan, Oregon, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Alabama, North Carolina and West Virginia. California, Maine and other states which reported more than one billion feet each in 1907 went just below that figure in 1908.
While there are many very large sawmills in the United States, the small mills far outnumber the large ones. Many of these small mills are in the states which are not now of first rank in lumber production. The statistics for New York were collected by the forest, fish and game commission of that state, which secured reports from 2,291 mills. In Pennsylvania 2,224 mills reported to the census, and in Virginia 1,937 mills.
Yellow pine, Douglas fir, white pine, oak, hemlock and spruce, in the order named, were the woods cut into lumber in the largest quantity.

Sixteen Melons in Two Layers.
The basket shown in the accompanying illustration is of the half bushel climax type. It holds sixteen melons, packed in two layers. The bottom of the basket is smaller than the top and must have smaller melons. The top layer must contain one and a half inches above the basket edge to permit proper covering. The packer must see that every melon is placed firmly in position, and the basket must present a neat and attractive appearance.
How Men Differ.
The difference in men is often astonishing. The corn growers near Des Moines, Ia., have been satisfied with a crop bringing $12 an acre, and yet the son of a stonemason recently came among them and made as high as $400 an acre out of tomatoes.
In the last seven years this young man has made $18,000 worth of improvements on a little farm of only thirty-two acres. He uses very little manure, but a great deal of water. He makes $2,500 a year on lettuce alone. Other men find farming a slow business, while this young man makes a fortune out of it with all ease. The difference is certainly strange.

WELLMAN FLYING TO NORTH POLE

Daring Aeronaut Leaves Spitzbergen in Dirigible Balloon.

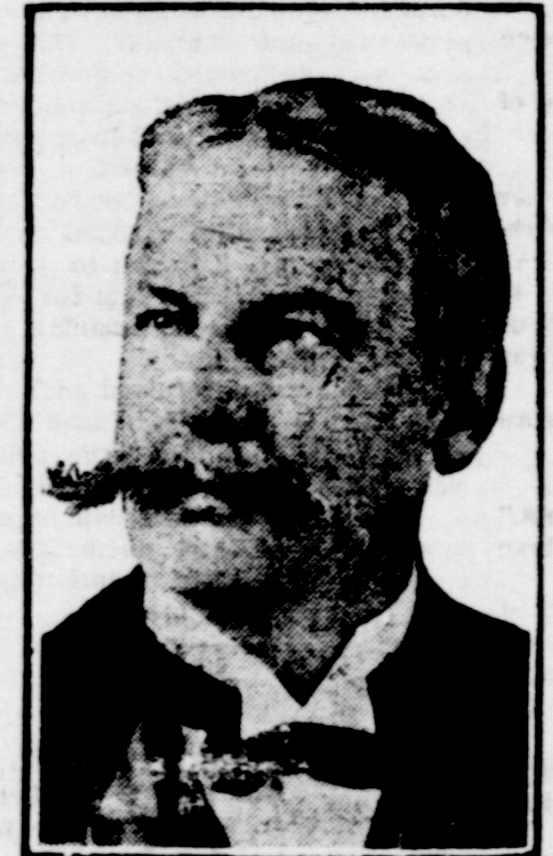

RECALL'S ANDREE'S SAD FATE

The Present Expedition Marks the Third Attempt of Walter Wellman to Reach the North Pole by Means of an Airship—Took Only Two Companions With Him.

Paris, Aug. 20.—A special dispatch has been received here from Trieste, Austria, saying that according to a telegram received from the captain of the Italian steamer Thalia, now at Hammerfest, Norway, Walter Wellman left Spitzbergen Aug. 16 in his dirigible balloon, bound for the North Pole. The telegram adds that Wellman had a favorable wind when the start was made.

A dispatch received Wednesday from Mr. Wellman's Arctic expedition camp at Spitzbergen, dated Aug. 14, said:

"A north gale which had been blowing since Aug. 5 dropped on the 12th, and Mr. Wellman made everything ready to start toward the North Pole. The balloon was inflated and provisioned and the motors were working smoothly. The 13th the wind still was variable, but Mr. Wellman decided to get his airship out of the house.

"The tourist ship Thalia, which arrived about this time, stopped at Spitzbergen, and her passengers spent the night ashore watching the preparations for the flight and hoping to see the start. The officers and crew of the Thalia assisted in swinging the airship, which was of fine appearance, out of the shed. The wind, however, again freshened, and at 6 o'clock in the morning Mr. Wellman ordered the airship back into the shed to wait for more propitious weather for starting."

His Third Attempt.
The present expedition marks Mr. Wellman's third attempt to reach the North Pole by airship. He set out the first time in 1894, but despite his elaborate preparations, gales prevented the start.

Again on Sept. 2, 1907, he left Spitzbergen in his airship, but an adverse wind drove his craft on a glacier, wrecking it. Mr. Wellman and his companions escaped unhurt.

His expedition recalls the mysterious fate of Professor S. A. Andree, the daring Swedish balloonist, who started on July 11, 1897, in a balloon with the intent, if possible, of drifting over the pole. He never returned.

Professor Andree was accompanied by two companions, Strindberg and Fraenkel. He was prepared to drop messages relating to his progress, and various such communications were discovered the three months following his departure. No authentic news, however, ever was received concerning the fate of the balloon or its occupants.

Three times it was reported that Andree's body had been found, but neither of these statements was substantiated. In July of 1902 a circumstantial report was received from York Factory, Northwest British territory, setting forth that Andree and his two companions had been murdered two years previously by a party of Eskimos several hundred miles north of York, near Fort Churchill.

Many expeditions, some equipped at great expense, have searched the Arctic regions unsuccessfully for the missing balloonists.

Took Only Two Men Along.
Madison, Wis., Aug. 20.—Mrs. Arthur Wellman, who lives in Madison, and whose husband has been with his brother, Walter Wellman, making preparations for the flight to the North Pole, received a letter from her husband, in which he stated that Walter would, within three or four days, start for the pole. He said Walter would take simply an engineer and one other man with him.

BOSTON'S WAR GAME IS OVER

General Bliss Confident Decision Will Be In His Favor.

LAST DAY'S "FIGHTING" FIERCE

Red Forces, Under General Bliss, Reach Hanover Four Corners, His Objective Point, After Hardest "Fighting" Witnessed During the Week's War Operations.

Boston, Aug. 20.—The war game, which has been conducted in southeastern Massachusetts during the past week, has ended, but whether Boston, which was the objective point of the invading army under Brigadier General Tasker H. Bliss, has been really captured, or whether the Massachusetts troops, commanded by General William Pew, succeeded in repulsing the attack of the Reds and blocking the path to Boston is a matter which is still clouded in mystery.

General Bliss expressed confidence that he had won the victory, and that the decision of the umpires, when it is ultimately given, will be in his favor. He declared he would open a way to Boston. On the other hand, General Pew and his lieutenants and some of his umpires and some other regular army officers in the Blue camp declared that the advantage of position at the close of hostilities lay with the Blues.

Last night the head of the army of invasion was at Assonet, a mile or two from Hanover Four Corners, while the head of General Pew's army was not more than 200 yards distant, and was said by the Blue officers to occupy a position where it could rake with a deadly fire the troops of the Reds, should an advance be made along that road.

The head of the Red army last night rested at Assonet, while the main body was at Hanover Four Corners, which, according to General Bliss, is the objective point he has been aiming to reach ever since he landed his forces at New Bedford. The result was accomplished after the hardest day of fighting that the war game has witnessed.

The Reds began the fighting early in the day by throwing their left wing—the Tenth cavalry, the New York cavalry, the District of Columbia and Connecticut infantry against the right of the Blues, which were gathered in considerable strength near Gourneys' Corner for two miles along a road through Bryantville to the Sandy pond.

For three hours the fighting continued fiercely, and the Blues held back the Red attack. After disagreeing somewhat, the umpires decided to set the Reds back a short distance. Troop B of the Massachusetts cavalry, succeeded in creeping through a piece of woods, after having dismounted and captured two field guns, and "shot" forty horses of the New York artillery, which had been shelling the Blues from the rear centre.

As the cavalry was making off and taking with them the captured guns, the Connecticut infantry fell upon them, captured about half the troops and recaptured the guns.

The orders given by General Bliss early in the morning to this detached wing of his army were to hold back the Blue forces and occupy their attention until the middle of the forenoon. This plan was carried out, and then the Reds fell back in good order to Pembroke Center, where another short but sharp battle took place. The Red detachment was trying to rejoin the main army two miles further up the road, when a large force of the Blues was encountered. This Blue force consisted of infantry, which had been hurried over a crossroad with the hope of destroying a bridge at the foot of Oldham's pond.

If the Blues had succeeded in dynamiting this bridge it might have caused considerable trouble for the Reds. As soon as fighting began here a machine gun platoon of the Tenth cavalry galloped up and quickly opened fire and held back the attack of the Blues.

The greatest battle of the day which lasted nearly four hours, occurred near Hanover Four Corners.

Brigadier General Bliss, Major General Leonard Wood, the chief umpire; Major General Francis B. Greene and foreign military attaches viewed the battle from a green lawn at the top of the hill in front of the Odd Fellows' hall. One hundred yards in front of them were three field batteries of artillery, which had been unlimbered and were firing in the back yard of a farmhouse, while across the valley of a little brook was the field artillery of the Blues. Massed in solidly on the top of the hill were Red infantry regiments, while several were engaged on the slope.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: J. "Come Into the Garden."

Weeds are sly about confessing their ancestry. In youth they have the charm of freshness and promise denied many fragrant flowers, and it is only when gripped to the earth with roots of iron and ready to set their progeny in delectable grounds that they show their true colors.

It is a puzzle how to tell friends from enemies, flowers from weeds. An observing eye, long about the business, may be gifted with an instinct and power to detect at once what promises to be candytuft, what grass, what nasturtium, what rue, or plantain, or poppy, or dandelion, and far into the species losing themselves in the disguise of similarity.

By taking the garden seriously there is variety enough to enliven the days. A package of lawn grass seed on a well prepared lawn will in time arouse all the emotions latent in the human character. According to well laid plans and promises, it should be clover and lawn grass. An English friend persuaded the introduction of a pinch of daisy seed, and at the hour of the first weeding a tender heart suggested that no lawn was perfect without dandelion gold.

One who would write a book with many pictures on the distinguishing traits of first sprouts should be rewarded with the privilege of making many editions to follow the first sweeping sales. Plants have curious ways of beginning life. Those that start out rosettes become tall and spindling later; those that send forth threads develop woody stems.

THE TOP SOIL ROAD, THE GIRL THAT HE KISSED BEFORE.

Details of a Method Which Originated in Clark County, Ga.

MATERIAL IN FIELDS TAKEN.

Soil Used Must Have Enough Sand or Gravel and Clay to Resist Action of Traffic and Weather—Cost, From $250 to $300 Per Mile.

A new method of road construction which was recently evolved in Clark county, Ga., is called the top soil method, because it consists of building the road out of the surface soil from the adjacent fields. In some respects it is like the sand-clay method, while in others it is similar to the gravel road. So far as the writer is aware, Clark county, Ga., enjoys the distinction of having originated this method. The details were worked out by Professor C. M. Strahn of Georgia university and Clark county's commissioner of deeds.

The success of this method depends largely upon the soil used. Just any soil will not do. It must have enough sand or gravel in it to resist the action of the traffic and weather and enough clay to bind the particles together. It is well known that, although clay has a high cementing value, it will not make a good road if used alone on account of the fact that when it is wet it absorbs moisture and softens. It is also well known that round, worn gravel or sand which is clean and free from clay will not produce a satisfactory road surface because neither will bind, but if clay, gravel and sand are mixed together in certain proportions they have been found to produce a surface which will be both hard and smooth the year round.

If these materials can be found already mixed the trouble and expense of mixing can be avoided. It is a common practice throughout the United States to use bank gravel for road surfacing which has a little clay in it, but Clark county is the first, I believe, to skin the top soil from the adjacent fields and use it for this purpose.

TOP SOIL ROAD, ATHENS, GA.
(From Good Roads Magazine, New York.)

It was observed in Clark county that where the top soil consisted of a mixture of sand, gravel and clay the sand and gravel had been drawn toward the surface and incorporated with the clay during cultivation.

The road is located and graded in the same manner as for gravel or macadam. The foundation is then shaped with a road machine and slightly crowned in the center, after which a layer of suitable top soil is spread to a width of about sixteen feet and a depth of about ten inches in the center and three or four inches at the sides. The next step is to open up the side ditches with a road machine. The earth from the ditches is thrown up against the bed of top soil as a shoulder.

The road machine is then used to level off the surface and to give it the proper slope from the center to the side ditches. The road is now thrown open to traffic and soon packs down into a hard, dry surface. If rainy weather occurs during the spreading of the material or soon after, so much the better. Wet weather and heavy traffic assist in the mixing and puddling process. After this process has continued until the surface soil is thoroughly mixed the road is dressed and reshaped with a light two horse grader. This treatment is continued until the surface is well hardened and all soft or uneven spots are removed.

To get the best top soil along any particular road hand samples are taken and examined before the work is begun. Samples of uniform size are selected and the percentage of gravel, sand and clay ascertained by washing out the clay and sifting out the sand. The sample which appears to have about the right proportion of sand, gravel and clay is selected. From 10 to 25 per cent of clay appears to be sufficient for binding material.

Aside from the grading, these top soil roads cost from $250 to $300 per mile. The road shown in the photograph was so bad the winter before it was improved that the traffic was forced into the adjacent woods and cotton fields to avoid the deep ruts and mudholes. Although the road had just passed through a hard winter and had been subjected to much heavy hauling, the photograph shows that now it is not only free from ruts and mudholes, but that it is hard and smooth.—Maurice O. Eldridge in Good Roads Magazine.

By JAMES C. HINES.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

Amy and I were putting together a picture puzzle. We had the parts on a table in a cozy nook in the garden. The hour was twilight. The moon was half full. There was a perfume of flowers.

"I wonder if we haven't it upside down," I remarked.

"No; that's sky on the top."

"Or water."

"Or rushes."

"They all look the same till combined in the picture. I have it. The boy's head goes in here."

"And the girl's in here."

"No," said Amy thoughtfully, "that would bring it too near the girls."

"You wouldn't have them sit at opposite ends of the boat, would you?" I objected.

Our own heads were quite near at the moment.

"You don't understand me. When the picture is finished you won't find the two heads so close together."

"And the old woman raking hay is spying on them. No; you are right; the artist wouldn't have drawn his picture that way."

"Why, what would the old woman be watching?"

"To see that the boy didn't steal a kiss."

"There's no harm in a kiss," Amy replied after a pause, "when they're engaged."

"I confess to have kissed a girl once to whom I was not engaged."

"You ought to have been ashamed of yourself?"

"How about the girl?"

"Oh, there was no excuse for her whatever. She must have been without any principle or modesty."

Why would one woman proceed to pass judgment on another without hearing anything of a defense. I was angered.

"The girl I kissed was as pure as an angel," I said with warmth.

"In your sight."

"In the sight of God and the saints."

"You didn't say you were in love with her."

This was a thrust I had not counted on. I warded it off by explaining that the affair occurred a long while ago, but since I was only twenty-two my position was weak.

"She was old enough to know better or you wouldn't have cared to kiss her."

I secretly resolved to punish Amy for this condemnation of one I had had tender regard for. But in my vocabulary a tender regard and love were not synonymous terms. I had never been in love and didn't know where the tender regard ended and love began.

"She was but fourteen," I replied.

"This piece forms the stern of the boat and this the bow, and this goes in between the boy and the girl."

"It's fortunate," I remarked, "that there's a piece to go in between them, since you're so prudish."

"I prudish?"

"Yes, if I should rest my arm on your waist you would be hopping mad."

She made no reply to this, and I dropped my hand on her waist. She might have been absorbed in the puzzle or bereft of a sense of feeling, for she did not notice the act. A slight motion of her head again drew the strands of her hair across my cheek. I now felt confident of paying her in her own coin for blaming the girl I had kissed.

"This piece," she said, putting it in a place where it fitted, "is the chimney to the cabin."

"And this is the boy's arm holding an oar," I added, trying to put a piece in a place where it didn't fit. I reached for another piece and in doing so brought my head still nearer Amy's. She drew away, but the movement was so faint that I did not consider it by any means a repulse. With the hand about her waist I drew her a bit nearer.

It's a dangerous thing for a young man to permit himself to work out a picture puzzle or any other kind of a puzzle in a garden with a girl, for the girl may be working out a puzzle of her own. I was bent on punishing Amy and forgot my caution. I did not realize that Love, with his bow and quiver and matrimony, with a wife and children, were perched on the limb of a tree behind me. I put my cheek so near Amy's that a sheet of paper wouldn't go between. Then, turning her face toward me, I kissed her.

I confess I was surprised that she should so meekly permit what a few minutes before she had condemned in another. I had intended to hold up to her the injustice, the inconsistency of her course, but there was something in her nonresistance that made me ashamed of myself. I thought I must say something, so I said something to make matters worse:

"I don't blame you."

"Do you blame yourself?" she asked by way of reply.

"Myself? No; yes. Why should I?"

"Do you consider it right to kiss a girl to whom you are not engaged?"

The moon shone, the flowers exhaled perfumes, the air was still. So was I. Finally I spoke:

"I'll make it right. I love you."

"And so I was caught. After it was all over she confounded me by saying:

"Do you wish me to tell you who was the girl you kissed before? Well, she was I. You forgot the fourteen-year-old miss, but she didn't forget you."

UNCLE SAM'S NEW MELON.

Delicacy From Roumania Which Will Be Grown Here.

The department of agriculture is always alert for something new, and the diplomatic and consular officers of the United States have special orders to be on the lookout for new fruits and vegetables.

So well have these orders been carried out that many new and strange fruits and vegetables have found their way to the tables of the American housekeeper.

One of the latest and best things in this line has been the introduction into the United States of the Roumanian watermelon. This was the result of a deal consummated by the late minister to Roumania, Horace G. Knowles.

When Mr. Knowles found this melon growing among the foothills of Carpathia he realized that it would be just the thing to serve individually in America, and instead of hotels serving huge slices of watermelon it would be possible to serve a whole uncut watermelon of the Roumanian variety, equal in every way to the best Georgia melon.

The new melon has a thin skin, and the meat, which is less fibrous than the American melon, is both yellow and red in color. The flavor is delicate and delicious, but the chief characteristic of the fruit is its size, which is about that of a good sized grapefruit or shaddock.

After a thorough test by the agricultural department, which found that the Roumanian melon could be successfully grown wherever our own melons would grow, and having been assured of its royal reception by the American public, Mr. Knowles was anxious to repay the gift. He had noticed that corn in Roumania was one of the chief articles of agriculture, but that sweet corn was unknown. Accordingly he obtained a quantity of seed, hired several plots of ground and instructed the Roumanians in its culture.

The result was so successful and the corn so thoroughly enjoyed that the king called Mr. Knowles to a private audience and thanked him for making it possible for the Roumanian people to gain this delicacy.

This melon has received such a welcome and so great has been the demand for it that two large hotels in New York and Philadelphia have agreed to take all that can be grown in the United States during the next year, and it is their intention to feature them on their menus.

Amount of Grain For Cattle.

The difference in practice between the amounts of grain that are fed to cattle that are being fattened is very great.

The following rules will be found of some service to those who are feeding: First, aim to feed coarse foods to the greatest extent possible consistent with good increase, as they are the cheaper foods; second, feed enough concentrates to make the fattening reasonably rapid in order to save in the food of maintenance; third, when the droppings show that the food is not being well digested by the offensive odor that comes from them the grain should be reduced; fourth, when the animal gets off feed the grain should be at once cut down or the trouble is likely to get worse. At such times condimental food may aid in bringing the stomach back into tone.

Care of the Grindstone.

A grindstone, by the way, should never be left exposed to the sun. The weight of the handle will always cause one portion of the stone to remain unperished, and this from exposure will reach a different degree of hardness from the underside, so that after awhile the stone will be ground out of a circle. If the stone has to stand in the open, a flat box can easily be obtained to serve as a cover.

Do not let $1.50 stand between you and real ironing comfort.

Why stand on your feet over the ironing table twice as long as necessary, when a Gas Iron will cut the time in two?

Hundreds of women in this town are really enjoying their ironing these days with the Gas Iron, where it used to be a hard day's labor.

Are you?

Or do you still use the old fashioned flat iron.

Why?

The Gas Iron saves you many hundred steps.

And money in fuel.

Allows you to work in a cool room.

And it saves time.

There seems to be absolutely no reason why you shouldn't have a Gas Iron.

All common sense says, "Get one."

Certainly you are not suffering the tortures of a hot kitchen and a tiresome day for one fifty.

Not when that one fifty will save you in many ways, every week for years to come.

Send for a Gas Iron. Get one for NEXT WEEK'S IRONING.
